

Two Cultures - One Spirit

ITINERARY OF PILGRIMAGE with Sergio Magaña Ocelocoyotl

The Egyptians saw their land as a sacred reflection of heaven on earth and perceived the Nile as the earthly mirror of the Milky Way, the celestial river. We are called to sail upon this Celestial River to align with the Divine mother energy and to awaken our enteric power and experience the higher consciousness of the ancient Egypt. As we connect with the 7 chakras of the Nile, we activate the higher chakras within. 8 days of meditation, reconnection to ancient wisdom, reconnection to our ancestors, reconnection to the cosmos and the elementals, fun and laughter and friendship. Join us on this journey of enlightenment, as we experience the true meanings of Oneness and yet detach, as we experience excitement and yet challenge as we experience harmony and yet heal our discord.

I cleanse my body and my mind.
When I find the light within my heart
When I touch the earth with the spirit of being
When I kiss the sun with my soul
When I open my palms to the sky
This message is transmuted to you....
Dawud in Islam is when we pray for the wellbeing and happiness for our brothers and sisters, and all of humanity.

- Constructed between 2589 and 2504 B.C., the Egyptian pyramids of Khufu, Khafre and Menkaure, built in that order, are a testament to ancient planning and engineering.
- Despite the differences among the three pyramids (Khufu's pyramid, the "Great Pyramid," is several times the mass of Menkaure's) the southeast tips of each pyramid align together almost precisely. Each pyramid had a mortuary and valley temple, with a causeway connecting them. They also had smaller pyramids referred to as satellite or queens' pyramids.
- The Sphinx, an enigmatic monument usually associated with king Khafre, stands watch near his valley temple. In addition, tombs sprawling to the east and west of Khufu's pyramid contain the remains of officials, royal relatives and others who had the privilege to be buried there
